PEOPLE FROM BLOOMINGTON

Author	:	Budi Darma
Page number	:	316
Size	:	13 x 20 cm
ISBN	:	978-602-385-021-1
Imprint	:	Noura Publishing
Rights	:	World English Rights sold to Penguin Classics
Contact info	:	rights@noura.mizan.com

Set in Bloomington, Indiana, where the author lived as a graduate student in the 1970s, this is far from the idyllic portrait of small-town America. Rather, sectioned into apartment units and rented rooms, and gridded by long empty streets and distances traversable only by car, it's a place where the solitary can all too easily remain solitary; where people can at once be obsessively curious about others, yet fail to form genuine connections with anyone. The characters feel their loneliness acutely and yet deliberately estrange others. Budi Darma paints a realist world portrayed through an absurdist frame, morbid and funny at the same time.

RAFILUS

Author	:	Budi Darma
Page number	:	318
Size	:	13 x 20 cm
ISBN	:	978-602-385-229-1
Imprint	:	Noura Publishing

Rafilus died twice. He died yesterday. Today, without ever coming back to life, he died again. He has two legs, walks like a normal human being, but his footsteps make galloping sounds like a heavy vehicle.

Originally published in 1988, Budi Darma uses the voice of his main character Tiwar to tell us about the lives of Rafilus and other unique characters. Every character in this novel actually feels empty inside. They are trapped in their routines and have no choice but to observe each little detail in their daily lives. Rafilus himself, even though he's physically able to hypnotize many people, especially women, he actually feels empty too. He really wants to have a child and he really wants to have an idea. However, he's barren and can't possibly have a child; and his ideas don't interest people.

A novel with a perfect language achievement.

We can't deny that Islam is stereotypically represented as a religion of ignorance, poverty and violence—even as the source of terrorism. All of those are so far from the image of Prophet Muhammad's Islam as religion of peace. It's no wonder that in the hands of Prophet Muhammad and his companions, Islam flourished all over the world, living and growing to influence world civilization in such a way that can still be perceived even now. Why has the image of Islam deteriorated so badly now? How can we fix it? This book presents light, yet thought-provoking articles as a source of contemplation to understand the condition of Muslims. It also offers alternative solutions to restore the image of Islam as the religion of peace and love.
